Before becoming formalized in written form, these narratives circulated through folk songs, ballads, and oral poetry. The Sufi tradition, with its emphasis on divine love, significantly influenced Punjabi love literature, blending spiritual devotion with romantic longing. Sufi poets like Bulleh Shah and Shah Hussain used allegories of love and separation that resonated deeply with the common people.

During the medieval period, tales such as the legendary romance of Heer Ranjha, composed by Waris Shah, became foundational texts. Waris Shah's Heer (published in the 18th century) is often considered the quintessential Punjabi love story, encapsulating themes of passion, sacrifice, societal constraints, and eternal devotion.

Colonial and Post-Colonial Periods

The colonial era introduced new literary forms and the influence of Western romantic narratives, which subtly permeated Punjabi literature.
